Silence is valued by Quakers because it allows us for a while to be aware of the inner and deeper meaning of our lives.

Quaker worship happens when two or more people feel the need to be still together, expecting to feel the presence of God or whatever word you may use for a spirit greater than ourselves.

There is no set service or appointed minister, but an attentive waiting together in silence. Anyone may feel the call to speak and share a thought, a prayer or a reading.

'I found the evil weakening in me and the good raised up'

Robert Barclay, late 17th century Quaker
